Hour Glass Honor Society to Initiate Six Active Coeds

Outstanding Women Will Be Inducted Into Honor Society February 9

Hour Glass Honor Society will initiate, on Thursday evening, February 9, six prominent University women who were pledged last November. They are Edith Grosvenor, Evelyn Iverson, Evelyn Kerr, Dorothy Niess, Catherine Prichard, and Betty Reynolds. The ceremony for initiation will begin at 7:15 p. m. in the Alpha Delta Pi rooms. Edith Grosvenor has been exceptionally active in athletics. At the present time she is vice president of the W. A. A. She was the soccer manager last year and participated in the soccer class games for three years. She has also been active in Rho Epsilon Mu, physical education sorority. Last April, Edith became the representative from the School of Education to the Student Council. Her social fraternity is Alpha Delta Pi.

Evelyn Iverson has served as assistant office manager of The Hatchet and is now a member of the Cherry Tree board. Last year she became a member of Gamma Eta Zeta, honorary journalistic sorority. For the past three years Evelyn has been a member of the W. A. A. She is also president of the Drama Appreciation Club, and is a member of the League of Women Voters. Her social sorority is Kappa Kappa Gamma.

Kerr is Rifle Head. Evelyn Kerr is the captain of this year's rifle team. She has been on The Hatchet staff for the last two years and is also editor of the School of Government section of the Cherry Tree. She was bid to Gamma Eta Zeta this year. Also, she is treasurer of Phi Pi Epsilon, foreign service sorority. She is a member of W. A. A. Alpha Delta Pi is her social fraternity.

Dorothy Niess is a member of the Cherry Tree board. She was elected by Columbia College to represent this group as a member of the Student Council. She is president of Phi Pi Epsilon.

Neophyte Diplomats To Hear Dr. Notz

Delta Phi Epsilon "Rally Smoker" to Bring Together Foreign Service Group

Members of Eta chapter of Delta Phi Epsilon, national foreign service fraternity, announce that a "rally smoker" will be held at the Sigma Nu House, Monday evening, February 13, at 8 o'clock. The object of the meeting is to bring together all men at George Washington University interested in foreign service, the Washington alumni and the national officers of the fraternity.

Dr. Notz, dean of the Foreign Service School, Georgetown University, and national president of Delta Phi Epsilon, will be the speaker of the evening. His profound knowledge of the foreign service profession is readily acknowledged and it is expected that his talk will provide an interesting evening. Other national officers who will attend are: Professor Donaldson of George Washington University, vice president; Professor Yeager of Georgetown University, secretary; and Mr. Harold Dotterer, treasurer.

Many prominent alumni, temporarily in Washington or now resident, have been extended invitations, including Judge De Courcy, president of the Washington Alumni; Mr. Clarence Brooks, former commercial attaché at Montevideo, Uruguay, and at present chief of the Latin American Division, Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce; and Mr. Charles Baldwin, U. S. Trade Commissioner, formerly stationed in Australia.

Entertainment and refreshments will provide the finale for the meeting.

Women Will Debate Swarthmore Team On Debts Question

Clara Critchfield, Esther Talley, and Charlotte Dubin have been selected to debate for George Washington against Swarthmore College on February 24. Jane Picklin will act as alternate. The question is "Resolved: That the United States should agree to the cancellation of inter-allied war debts."

George Washington will uphold the affirmative of the question. The debate will be held here and it is planned to hold the contest before the local Swarthmore Alumna Association.

A negative team will meet Hood College at Frederick, Md., on March 10, debating the same subject. Helen Sherkey, Elizabeth Rice, and Marjorie Nelson will constitute the team with Sylvia Edlavitch as alternate.

Senior Manager

GERALD FREE.

Who receives appointment for position through resignation of the incumbent, Jack Vivian.

Gerald Free Gets Managerial Position As Vivian Resigns

Sophomore Posts in Golf and Tennis Go to Hal Thomas and John Busick

Announcement has been made by the athletic department of the appointment of Gerald Free as senior manager of athletics for the year 1932-33. He was named to the post as a result of the resignation of Jack Vivian, who held this position during the football season and the beginning of the current basketball campaign.

By virtue of his appointment, Free automatically becomes the official manager for the entire year, providing that he holds the position in good standing during the remainder of the present semester.

As manager of the 1931 varsity football team, which made the best record of any Colonial eleven in 20 years, Jerry played an important part in the success of that squad and is well qualified for his new position. The role of manager is a very important one and naturally involves behind-the-scenes activity, but as senior manager in charge of all sports he will get an opportunity for long-delayed recognition.

New System Like Pyramid. Under the present system, which might be likened to a pyramid, the senior manager is named to his position after several years of service as freshman assistant, sophomore, and junior manager. He is appointed to the directorial job after service as a junior manager in charge of a major sport. The senior manager is the general manager of all sports and of the respective junior and subordinate managers.

At the same time announcement was made of the selection of Hal Thomas and John Busick as sophomore minor sports managers of golf and tennis, respectively.

Student Government Opens Public Hearing

These hearings will be continued on February 15 and 16.

A number of students who were invited to appear before the council according to council members, taking advantage of this opportunity to express their views on coordination of the various activities on the campus. Any student, faculty member or alumnus may appear before the council and express his views. Suggestions and criticism may be submitted in either oral or written form.

Students or others wishing to appear should notify some member of the council before the date they wish to testify.

Rev. Arlington A. McCallum To Conduct Chapel Friday

The Rev. Arlington A. McCallum, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, will conduct a devotional service at Friday's chapel in Corcoran Hall 10 from 12:10 to 12:30 p. m.

James Brown Scott To Talk in Stockton On Genesis of Law

Students of Law and Government Will Find Special Interest in Speech

Stressing the basis of law between nations, a comparison of standards of conduct of civilized human beings and of nations, and a survey of the ethics of international relations, Dr. James Brown Scott will lecture on "International Law and Morality" in Room 10 of Stockton Hall on Wednesday noon, February 8.

Dr. Scott is secretary of the Carnegie Endowment of International Peace. He was a professor of law on the staff of the University Law School from 1906-12 and was awarded the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws at the commencement exercises held in June, 1912. He is an international jurist of world repute and an author of many works on matters of international significance. He is an honorary member of the faculty of political science, University of Santiago, Chile, and political science and economics, Universidad Mayor de San Marcos, Peru.

Cloyd Heck Marvin, president of the University, will introduce Dr. Scott. Members of the Law School faculty headed by William Cabell Van Vleet, dean of the school, will appear on the platform with the lecturer. The lecture is open to the public and students in every department of the University. Material used in the course of the talk will form the last chapter of a book which the lecturer is soon to release.

Appreciation Club To Produce Plays

Tryouts Take Place Wednesday at 8 p. m. in Room 21 of Lambie House

The production of a group of one-act plays is being planned by the Drama Appreciation Club. Try-outs for the plays selected will be held tomorrow at 8 p. m. in Room 1 of the Lambie House. Anyone with ability as an actor or director is urged to attend.

Mrs. George Romney, member of the Little Theater Guild, and prominent in the Washington dramatic world, will supervise the productions. Mrs. Virginia G. Barrows is acting as University sponsor.

Esther Talley, president of the club, states that the undertaking has been instigated to give actual experience in technical and dramatic background. Previously, the Drama Appreciation Club confined its interests to attending and discussing current productions at the National Theater, where its members can obtain cut-rate tickets.

Members of Junior Class Will Discuss Prom on Thursday

Whether or not the junior class will hold a prom will be decided at the first meeting of the junior class, to be held Thursday, February 9, at 8 p. m. in Corcoran 10.

The question of compulsory dues will also be decided upon, according to Joseph Danzansky, president. A faculty advisor is to be selected and members of the various committees appointed. No junior will be appointed to any committee unless he attends the meeting. Dean Wilbur is to install the recently elected officers of the class. In view of the fact that the future organization of the junior class depends on the success of this first meeting, Mr. Danzansky urges that a special effort be made by every member of the class to attend.

Entertainment will be offered by the Troubadours and the University Band.

Orchestra, Band Try-Outs Begin. New candidates for the University Band or Symphony Orchestra may appear for try-outs at any time by referring to Louis Malkus, band office, at noon or 5 p. m. any week day.

Gate and Key Bids Prominent Greeks At Interfrat Prom

Seven Men Pledged by Interfraternity Society; Dean Doyle Speaks

Seven men were pledged by Gate and Key, honorary interfraternity society, last Wednesday evening at the Interfraternity prom. The men were: Dewitt Hyde and Allan Stanley, Kappa Sigma; William Keller, Delta Tau Delta; Robert Hitch, Lambda Chi Alpha; Grandison Allen, Sigma Nu; Brendel Gettys, Beta Theta Pi; Dennis Link, Sigma Phi Epsilon.

Henry Gratton Doyle, dean of the Junior College, made a brief address before the announcement of the pledges was made. He praised the principles and ideals that Gate and Key stood for and said, "The University is always glad to further any campus organization that tends to stimulate and promote the activities of George Washington University, and to recognize the social attainments of its students." William Helvestine, president of Gate and Key, announced the pledges.

Gate and Key recognizes those men in social fraternities who have attained distinction in campus activities, with a view to encouraging student participation therein.

Dewitt Hyde is president of Kappa Sigma, while Allan Stanley is a member of the varsity tennis team and of Sigma Tau, honorary engineering fraternity. William Keller is president of Delta Tau Delta, and has attained prominence in University affairs. Robert Hitch claims distinction as assistant manager of varsity basketball. Grandison Allen is vice president of Sigma Nu and a member of the interfraternity tennis team; Brendel Gettys manages the varsity tennis team. Dennis Link has gained his social honors as the president of Sigma Phi Epsilon.

Resigns Post

TED RINEHART.

Law School alumnus and administration's contact man, who will practice law in Oklahoma.

Theodore Rinehart Leaves University; Will Practice Law

Served as Contact Man Between Administration and Campus Organizations

Theodore Rinehart resigned his post here last week to practice law in Oklahoma. His sudden departure came as a surprise to his friends.

Rinehart, affectionately known as "The Mayor," was connected with the President's office. He served as contact man between the administration and campus organizations. The harmony existing between the two attests to his ability.

Coming here from Oklahoma State and Pennsylvania in 1929, Rinehart entered the Law School, from which he was graduated with an LL.B. last June.

While at Oklahoma State, Ted served in the president's office, was a member of the varsity debate team, and was president of the junior class, the student senate, and Ruf Nex. His fraternities are Kappa Alpha Order (southern) and Phi Delta Phi (legal). As a law student, Ted was elected to the Student Council. Serving on this body, he did much to found the University Band.

Rinehart's outstanding achievement as an undergraduate was his direction of the University Carnival. Unstinting praise from all quarters has been given him for his ability to put over one of the best affairs ever seen on the campus.

Last June, at the senior class exercises, Rinehart was awarded the Delta Tau Delta activities prize. This award is made annually to the man in the senior class who, throughout his course at George Washington, has done the most constructive work in the furtherance and upbuilding of the University's student activities.

Following his graduation last year, Ted was appointed to the president's office. It was at this time that the appellation "Mayor" was given him.

Indefatigable as ever, Rinehart proved that his appointment was well merited. His greatest achievement was the planning of Homecoming Day, the first that George Washington University has ever had. Ted's efforts were recognized by the General Alumni Association in a resolution commending him for his work.

Famous Oboist Will Play With Symphony Orchestra

Marcel Tabuteau, well known oboist of the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra, will be the guest soloist on the National Symphony Orchestra program at Constitution Hall, Thursday at 4:45 p. m. Hans Kinder will conduct the orchestra.

The program will consist of the following numbers: Adagio.....Bach-Posselt Symphony No. 5.....Shubert Concerto Grosso in G Minor.....Handel Overture in "Carneval Roman" Berlioz Mische Levitzki, celebrated pianist, will be heard on February 19 in the next concert of the Sunday series. Both concerts are popularly priced. Seats may be obtained at Julius Garfinkel and Co., Fourteenth and F streets.

Ty Hertzler Stars With 15 Points Against Disappointing Opposition

SCORE AT HALF, 27 TO 7

Second Team Carries On With Little Trouble for Final Quarter

Featuring the fine basket work of "Ty" Hertzler, giant center, who scored 15 points, the Colonials trimmed the hitherto undefeated Rider College five in the gym last night, 49-20. Although beaten by independent teams, the Newark quintet was surprisingly slow in tasting its first collegiate defeat.

Falling before the surprise passing and shooting of George Washington, the visitors never threatened after the opening moments of play. Led by Burgess, Howell, and Hertzler, Coach Pixlee's first string five met little opposition as it ran the score from 11-2 midway in the first period to 27-7 at half.

Hertzler not only showed class under the basket in following up his mates' falling efforts, but got the top consistently. Burgess and Howell, the midjet forwards, took every advantage of this aid, scoring on a single play from the jump frequently.

In the final quarter of the game Coach Pixlee made use of the second team and Pede, was able to lead the squad on more even terms. Reichardt, visiting forward, led his team in scoring with 8 points and O'Hara, sub guard, gave the Colonials some worry during his tenure of play.

300 Couples Attend Interfraternity Prom

Vocal and Instrumental Numbers Intersperse Dreamy Dance Selections

Three hundred couples dancing now dreamily, now nonchalantly, now frenziedly, to appropriate strains furnished by Jacques Renard and his band of music makers, with vocal and instrumental specialty numbers, filled the grand ballroom of the Willard Hotel last Wednesday night, as the Interfraternity Prom wove itself into history.

Dancing began at 10 o'clock, and the silk hats and low-necked evening gowns continued arriving until midnight, at which time the Grand March took place. After the Grand March, awards and the Gate and Key pledging ceremony occupied the center of the stage. And then came the specialty numbers.

"Toots" Mandello wandered up to the microphone with his battered high hat and weird saxophone to give an imitation of Ted Lewis doing a hot blues number. Then Jacques Renard, famed in adolescence as a virtuoso, played "Make Believe" on his violin with a fervor that made his ability obvious and real.

Ronald Groome paid tribute to Jacques' rendition with a lyric selection entitled "Play, Fiddle, Play," that drew rounds of applause. Then the orchestra swung into "Brother, Can You Spare a Dime?" and the dancing was on again. Vocal refrains were offered by Charlie Walker, trombonist, in a Bing Crosby manner, and by Pete Herman, nationally known as an "a la jig" artist.

It was not long after that until 2 o'clock, when the last number was played and the crowd broke into twos, fours, sixes and eights, to wend their way joyously to dining places and domiciles.

WASHINGTON, D. C., TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 7, 1933.

It Is Up to the Junior Class Whether We Have a Junior Prom!

At a meeting to be held Thursday, February 9, at 8 p. m., in Corcoran Hall 10, the junior class will decide whether or not there shall be a junior prom at George Washington University during the present school year. There has been a conspicuous absence of activity on the part of the junior class since its organization in the early part of the semester just ended. The Hatchet welcomes notice of this meeting as an indication that a healthy condition may yet manifest itself among members of the junior class.

For years there has been no junior prom at George Washington.

This does not mean necessarily that there could not have been nor cannot be one. We believe that the membership of the junior class is such as would justify the staging of this long-absent social event. Here is an opportunity for concentrated action. A junior prom would be open to all organizations and all personnel comprising that class. Such a breadth of scope should insure the success of the endeavor if the junior class can muster the long-absent courage to attempt such a function during this year. We hope the class of '34 can put this prom across.

Delta Epsilon and Gamma Eta Zeta Should Show Some Interest

About the only encouragement members of The Hatchet staff and the Cherry Tree staff receive is possibility of membership in either Pi Delta Epsilon or Gamma Eta Zeta. It seems unfortunate indeed that neither of these organizations has seen fit to come to the fore with any concrete program during this year. There is ample opportunity for such in the way of organization and stimulation of interest among those students interested in the various phases of journalism in George Washington. Is it asking too much of these two honorary journalistic societies to question their activities during the current year? May we not hear from them as to their neophytes and as to proposed plans of action on campus?

Maybe the Juniors Can Iron Out The Age-old Questions of Class Fees

The question of compulsory class dues which is to be discussed at the meeting of the junior class Thursday, February 9, may prove enlightening to the entire student body of the University. There have been many suggestions about changes in the University fee and many complaints as to the cost of photographs for the Cherry Tree. We understand that class dues, as they will be discussed at this meeting, will have some relation to these bones of contention. The Hatchet awaits with interest the outcome of this discussion, and we feel that freshmen and seniors alike can well afford to pay heed to whatever plan is proposed at this meeting to take care of these items of expense.

We Agree With Our Fellow Sufferers Out in the Distant Northwest

We'd like to say a few words in regard to professors who change text books every year and, incidentally express our appreciation to those who require no texts at all in their classes. We know that we aren't alone in our beliefs in regard to this and this being the period of depression, our thoughts in this will not be out of place. During the course of a college career, the average student carries some 35 courses, requiring the purchase of somewhere from $100 to $200 worth of books, depending on the curricula. One-half of this amount could be saved by the purchase of second-hand books. If some of the professors did not write a new book for each new class, or did not change the book because several revised paragraphs had been placed in the "latest edition" (which to the financially-harassed student, seems once or twice every year).

In the language courses, we believe the same readers could be used in successive years, rather than the requiring of a new one that has never before been used. And we might add, in passing, that fewer new and expensive books would result in less doubling up on texts and would not inconvenience the faculty members nearly as much as the present situation now seems to do.—The Montana Kaimin.

Bouquets and Brickbats

Just to get this off our chest at the outset . . . it seems to us in our naive state of cosmic oblivion that a University boasting of as many out-of-town students as are enrolled at G. W. could afford to "take a sporting chance" by cashing checks up to a reasonable amount—let us say $15 . . . after all, where is a student to get a check cashed if not at the University offices . . . the fact that the sceptre of experience has indicated that even prospective G. W. students will give rubber checks in return for good cold cash doesn't really give the business office a legitimate excuse for its unreasonableness in the matter . . . no student is going to risk having his credentials held up or a transcript of his records refused because of his persistence in palming off a bad bit of script on the University figureheads . . . and where a certified check is presented in excess of the necessary amount for registration there should be little fear of cashing it . . . University students after all are not high school children any longer and the University business office would do well to take cognizance of that fact . . . and while we're at it there is another little matter which we feel has gotten off to an unfortunate start . . . that University Co-op Bookstore which charges a percentage for the sale of books which it takes on consignment . . . it has always seemed to us that it takes just as much work, energy and effort to sell Joe Gluch's $1.00 book as it does to dispose of Mary Rittenstuber's $7.50 text . . . and since the University Bookstore is supposedly offering a service to students which they cannot get as conveniently or as well elsewhere, why not be equitable about the matter . . . there is no additional investment to the University in handling the exchange—it is merely a service consistent with a progressive institution which seeks to aid its students . . . and consequently we suggest a rate charge within reason . . . let us suggest 15 cents a volume . . . in the case, you have any qualms or compunctions as to the bouquets there are many, and the first goes to the Sears-Roebuck Company, which is allowing the Symphony Club to meet in its spacious Art Gallery quarters . . . and much congrats to the seven men pledged to Gate and Key at the Interfrat hop . . . which by the way was a huge success, with an exceptional orchestra . . . the last word in entertainment . . . and a galaxy of color and excitement . . . which shows what CAN be done depression or no depression . . . and lest you forget we'll let you in on the dope that the Interfrat Pledge Council is planning a scrip shindig at the Sigma Nu mansion up R street way to make up for the deficit of that group's ambitious prom . . . occasionally we are called upon to cast a few posies and make a loud wailing and gnashing of teeth louder in genuine lamentation . . . such is our attitude in commenting upon the disappearance of Theodore ("Oklahoma Mayor Ted") Rhinehart from the University environs . . . everyone who knew Ted learned to like him . . . and those who have failed to make the acquaintance of the astute but genial Mayor are few . . . his position as "contact man" was a strategic one . . . it was quite essential as an assurance of University good-will and harmony between students and other component groups at the institution . . . we wish him every success in the administration of law among the oil fields of the "Sooner" State . . . and we look with interest to the appointment of his successor . . . good idea that of adding a Camp Counselor Training Course to the curriculum . . . and we're still all "for" the Junior Prom . . . the Interfrat Council "thank-you" letter is a gesture which is much appreciated . . . and here's hoping embryo musicians will give the band and symphony tryouts more than casual consideration . . . nice move on the part of the Student Council in inviting students to appear before it with suggestions . . . (all right, you prolific literary critics and bombastic curbstone orators, here's the opportunity you've been howling for in the past . . . show your colors and be quite positive they're not yellow) . . . all eyes on the Rifle Club, which competes in the National Intercollegiate Championship . . . (it has placed among the first ten in past competitions) . . . might be a good idea if the ladies of the Orchestra who have deserted the confines of a one-time church for the more commodious appointments of the Ten O'Clock Club for its more interpretatively conducive atmosphere would trip the light fantastic before the admiring and critical eyes of fellow students on some occasion . . . those Phi Sigs who garnered three cups as Interfrat awards get our praise . . . (no wise cracks, you "sour-grape" dilettantes) . . . and it's quite a bouquet for the symphony orchestra which will stage its University premiere in a concert at Corcoran Hall on March 2 . . . and the six coeds elected to Hour Glass . . . our congrats . . . and pretty nice of the Women's Organization of National Association of Retail Druggists to award $100 loan to students in Pharmacy . . .

CABLEGRAM: On steamboat bound for Yap the editors of the Razzberry send greetings and exclaim "What! No subpoenas?" To the new freshmen Rollo sends greetings and advice (not encroaching on Dean Doyle's territory) 1. Don't listen to Bourke Floyd or any other adolescent Sophomore; 2. Final exams are hard and, strange as it may seem, you can't cram for them at the last moment; 3. Fraternities and sororities are evils one can't escape, so don't resist; 4. Yes, there is a library; 5. The wire on the campus is not a radio—it is meant to keep you off the grass; 6. Dart O'Keefe and Parleton own the only coonskin coats in school and they can't help it, so don't buy one; 7. Sorority women throw the ole oil and nothing more, so just slide along the line and don't stop to investigate. Yes! up until 12 o'clock Rollo attended the Prom, and my, oh my! Jacks can sure strum a mean Swinet. Wine seemed to be the predominant shade a repeal motif, ch—among the women who were numerous and much; couldn't help noticing such resplendent creations as "Jo" Parks in a gold sequin armor with a purple feather boa. Dille appeared from obscurity with the old anchor Malkus and scored in a blue velvet fox fur-trimmed whizz (did you note the curls?) Betty Schwab, the S. A. E.-S. N. pride, done herself well in a wine velvet with like color fluffy duffels, while McNary stopped the boys in black crepe which could be seen in spots, sometimes. Schaub, the Razzberry's Mona Lisa, did her stately beauty in black and white velvet, while Ann White a la Spencer in a shoulderless white crepe with fur to keep her warm. Spignul went over as usual in a two-tone wine-colored taffeta. Betty Coon hung on the sweet and simple in black and white, while Eller in wine (again) crepe couldn't help but be noticed. If any of yousee dames think you should have been in this, perhaps you were in the lobby when Rollo made his rounds. Smooth Nellies, Bain and Hanback after dictating "No Corsages," shipped orchids to their femmes via J. Renard Route—Big-hearted Jacques. Kitty Prichard tried to use one of the Prom favors for a cold and discovered they were only costume embellishments. Take this with a grain of salt: "I under wear my pin is tonight." The results of the Dike-Seal nuptials (which event incidentally was naught but a taffy pull to Zu-Zu Stewart) celebrated the event at ye prom. As if one grand march wasn't enough, that photographer Casson held a practice one so he could mug the crew. The Zetas' quest for a live cockroach on an article hunt ended in the Delts' kitchen. How much did Van De-mark pay the Willard doorman to hold the keys to his car and permit it to remain in the No Parking zone? When someone remarked that when Fesler sleeps Ann works, or vice-versa, Scottie replied that she "never slept on the job." When Wendell Bain takes a girl out she gets appendicitis, first Warren, now it's Cooper. Imagine McCoy's embarrassment when he asked Edwina Seal for a date and found she had been married that night! Oh, yes, the Razzberry. Well, they didn't ask for a humor magazine. In spite of the fact that we jestingly called him the "Mayor," there isn't a person who knew Ted Rhinehart that won't miss him.—Good-by and good luck, Shruggee. You, too, can acquire campus prominence. Get a Pierce Arrow; ask Platonia Papps. Enuff for this week—Hello, Betty, how about a letter? A little cheer, pleasant dreams, and au revoir.

NOTES ON COLLEGIATE ACTIVITIES

Ragatz to Referee Fellowship Awards

Prof. Lowell J. Ragatz, of the history department, has received an invitation from the Institute of International Education to referee the selection of recipients of the annual award of the American German Student Exchange Fellowships for graduate study in Germany and of the fellowship offered by the Germanistic Society of America. The Institute expects to grant approximately 40 of these exchange fellowships, which will be distributed over a number of fields of study. Dr. Ragatz was requested to pass upon the credentials of those students applying in the field of history. The invitation was extended through Dr. Stephen P. Duggan, director of the Institute.

Croissant Installed As Lodge Master

Dr. DeWitt Clinton Croissant, professor of English, was installed last night as master of the Benjamin B. French Lodge, No. 15, F. A. A. M. Prof. Croissant, who was on sabbatical leave from the University last semester, was in Europe at the time of his election to the office. "Guide" Publication By Ragatz Appears

"A Guide for the Study of British Caribbean History, 1763-1834, Including the 'Abolition and Emancipation Movements,'" a 725-page volume compiled by Dr. Lowell Joseph Ragatz, associate professor of history, has recently made its appearance.

The fruit of 11 years labor, the "Guide" covers "the critical period in British West Indian history witnessing the spectacular transition from opulence and commanding position to ruin and stagnation."

It is based on material found in 69 repositories, both public and private, located in the United States, Canada, Great Britain, Jamaica, France, Belgium, and Switzerland. Each institution, excepting that in Kingston, Jamaica, was visited personally, and all but

A round table conference on "Farm Relief" is planned for the next meeting, which will be held February 13.

Columbian Women To Meet Tonight

A musical program will be featured at the meeting of Columbian Women of the George Washington University tonight. Miss Beulah Chambers, pianist; Miss Yvonne Rapee, coloratura soprano; and Mr. Rawley Donohue, baritone, a group of artists well known in Washington music circles, will offer several interesting selections. The meeting will be held in Fellowship Hall at the Western Presbyterian Church.

The Literature Section will meet with its hostess, Miss Hazelton, on Tuesday, February 14, at 4:30 p. m. at Lambie House. Miss Bertha Frances Wolfe will read one of her stories and Miss Estelle Drane will read some of her poems.

14 of the items listed in the "Guide" were examined by Dr. Ragatz.

An exceptionally fine index, prepared with the aim of making the volume of ready service to novice and specialist alike, was compiled by Mary Parker Ragatz.

Dr. Ragatz began compilation of the "Guide" for purely personal use while working on his "Fall of the Planter Class in the British Caribbean, 1763-1833." Upon completion of that project, Dr. Ragatz became absorbingly interested in the "Guide" which had been slowly taking shape.

The "Guide" was published under Congressional appropriation. The edition ran 7,000 copies, 500 of which were distributed to the chief libraries of the world by the Smithsonian Institution, and 1,000 copies being reserved for sale through the Superintendent of Documents. The remainder of the copies was distributed to members of Congress and to the members of the American Historical Association.

ROBERT P. HERZOG

Now that Tom Dike has been SEALED, Coach Pixlee will be looking for a first-rank linesman to fill the shoes of this able guard and center. Though "Hoolligan" play during the latter part of last season was not up to snuff because of injuries received in the Alabama game, he has had an enviable reputation in his brief collegiate career.

It's a shame Wick Parrack can't play in that N. Y. tourney, as he'd really have come into his own in the spacious Madison Gardens; however Mr. Pixlee fortunately has an able sub in Howell. . . . "Ox" Wickam, 240-pound reserve center, won't play either. . . . G. W. is playing the best team in the meet, in a game which will be the feature of the all-day affair. . . . Nat Holman, C. C. N. Y. mentor, is perhaps the best known in the business. . . . The City boys have won eight games and lost one to date this season (St. John's beat them by one point). . . . There's a movement on foot to arrange a pilgrimage to the Big City for the event; anyone interested is asked to communicate with me.

Along the line of minor sports: There'll be a frosh tennis team this spring if enough interest is displayed. . . . Lacrosse is "still." . . . The riflers will shortly take their first intercollegiate shots. . . . It was an unofficial G. W. team that met the Canoe Club in water polo last week. . . . G. W.'s swimmers lost three consecutive meets by 34-32.

Princeton had a minor sports program last year which cost them 91 grand, according to the AP dispatch. . . . Football receipts were off by 50 per cent. . . . Their net loss in sports for the past two seasons has been around 130,000 shekels. . . . Their spring schedule is cut. . . . Speaking of cutting down on sports, the Naval Academy had EIGHT different athletic events on Saturday, all listed as intercollegiate. They were: Basketball, fencing, swimming, water polo, boxing, wrestling, plebe wrestling and rifle. . . . A well known athletic instructor insists that a track and field team would be more popular than the proposed plan now under consideration. However, he admits that our facilities are not adequate for handling the cinder sport.

The athletic department is sporting a new Pontiac. . . . Among the February registrants was Len Walsh's little brother, Joe. . . . A local columnist reports that Dutch Bergman (C. U.) and Jim Pixlee are shaking hands kinda strenuously. . . . Congrats to the athletes who dragged down the good grades last term; outstanding among them was Joe Edwards. . . . Princeton claims that 51 per cent of her athletes made the honor roll.

Burgess collected eight out of eleven foul shot attempts Saturday, and the team collected 15 out of 21, which is quite a record.

Just when we thought that football had given way to spring activities, we learn that the Green Bay Packers administered a 19-6 defeat to the Southern California All-Stars on Saturday. . . . And a board of prominent coaches, led by Lou Little, is now in session to consider revisions to the rules. . . . And Jack Espey announces that the complete varsity schedule for '33 will not be out for at least another month.

The rules to be changed include: An out-of-bounds rule which would automatically move the ball at least ten yards in from the line to prevent wasting a down to perform the same service; notifying coaches when their teams have taken three times-out; allowing unpaid officials, instead of a field judge, to keep time; defining interference with a passer as bodily contact; and lowering the penalty on clipping from

Interfrat Bowlers Roll Off Saturday

The second winter event on the interfraternity sports schedule will begin next Saturday night, February 11, when numerous would-be pin splitters of the various fraternities open up on the Rendezvous Bowling Alleys at Fourteenth and Buchanan streets. The teams are divided into two leagues, and the matches will be rolled off on five consecutive Saturdays, with the finals on March 18.

Fraternity bowling matches are always scenes of great interest; moreover, they provide the means for an inexpensive evening with a lady, as most of the crowd retire to the various houses for radio parties after the games.

Remembering last year's thrilling finish, when Kappa Sigma upset Sigma Nu in the last match to win the League A championship, and then won the cup from the highly touted Acacia team, one can easily expect more evenings of the same sort.

The bowling schedule is published below:

Courtmen Set New Record in Flashy Victory Over Elon

Howell and Burgess Grab Off
High Scoring Honors in
76-21 Rout

A scrappy, colorful Colonial five put the screws on Elon Saturday night and established what is believed to be a modern scoring record for this region. While the Carolinians were fighting to keep their heads above water, the Buff and Blue court team, led by Burgess and Howell, cracked the weak Tarheel defensive for 76 points.

O'Leary sent eleven men into the fray in the hope that the inhuman scoring would cease, but the reserves, as well as the regulars, proved to be too much for the visitors. Jimmy Howell demonstrated that he was all that press agents have touted him to be. Playing ten minutes in the second half, he added 14 points to the already insurmountable score. Forrest Burgess, the same man that local papers reported as having lost his shooting eye, added 18 markers to the mele.

During the first 15 minutes of play the entire team entered into the scoring, and when the subs entered the contest with four and one-half minutes to go, the score was 28-5. The remainder of the period changed the score to 34-7; it featured a pass the length of the court, from Fenlon to Wray, which netted two points.

The reserves started the second half with Mulvey substituting for Carlin. When seven minutes had clicked off the subs had rearranged the count to the 41-13 level, with Fenlon and Wray again leading the offensive. During this period the regulars had been moving up and down the bench like a bunch

Wake Forest Five To Meet Colonials In Week's Feature

The Colonial basket ball team, with one game already played, faces two more strenuous games before completing the week's schedule. Wake Forest, in town on a two-day visit, will be met on Thursday, while Long Island U. provides the attraction for Saturday.

The Wake Forest team lost to the Colonials 48-34 in last year's game, and will be attempting to even the score in this engagement. This game will provide a comparison with the flashy C. U. quint, as the Wake Forest team is playing them on Wednesday. Long Island U., a newcomer to the Buff and Blue schedule, furnishes the opposition for Saturday night. Gallaudet, one of the weaker local fives, was beaten by Long Island Saturday, 39-29; if comparison means anything, therefore, the Colonials are due for another victory.

Frosh Win Thriller From Tech Quintet

Resuming their battle against an ambitious schedule, the frosh finished the week with a 50-50 average. They took a sensational contest from Tech, 42-41, on Thursday, but suffered an unexpected loss to Gonzaga, 32-20, on Friday.

In the upset victory over Tech a new Dick Merriwell was uncovered in the person of Leemans. With the yearlings one point behind and less than 30 seconds to play, he sank a long shot from the middle of the floor to put the result on the right side of the ledger. Leemans also contributed a total of 12 points to be second to Kane's 14.

Against Gonzaga, Walsh's men led for three-quarters of the game and seemingly had it won, but the Purples put on a last-minute scoring spree and ran away with the game. Kane, with 12 points, led the scoring in this contest also.

Schedule Released For Court Events In New York City

Colonial Five to Meet C. C.
N. Y. in Feature Game of Charity Tourney

Final details of the charity basketball show to be held in Madison Square Garden, New York City, on February 22, in which Jim Pixlee's Colonial Giants will participate, were announced last week. The mayor's committee, meeting in the New York Athletic Club, listed the schedule, which includes three afternoon and three evening contests. The last game of the day pits George Washington against the fast City College of New York five, as the feature attraction.

Reports and press dispatches from New York have been very favorable since the St. John's of Brooklyn team returned home from its road trip, and Coach Buck Freeman told such flattering tales of the Colonials' strength, as shown in the meeting with his team in which the Johnnies barely eked out a 36-35 extra-period victory.

As a result, G. W. was the first outside team invited to compete with the New York and Brooklyn fives. Later, teams representing Williams College and Carnegie Tech were included in the program, although the Williams-Columbia contest has not yet been officially decided upon.

In meeting the Nat Holman-coached City College five, the Colonials will run up against one of the leading teams entered in the tourney. The name of Holman alone is enough to insure the respect of any quint for the C. C. N. Y. squad. Many years a member of the world-champion Original New York Celtic pro team, Holman has transferred the fast-passing pro tactics to his charges with good results.

To date the New Yorkers have dropped only one game in their schedule, and that to the St. John's Club. The Brooklanders defeated both George Washington and City College by the narrowest of margins, although the latter did not require an extra period to reach the decision.

On the credit side of the ledger, Hol-

Riflers Preparing For National Meet Individual Matches

Members of the rifle team have been busily engaged the past few weeks in shooting their targets for entrance in the National Intercollegiate Individual Championship Contest. In former years Colonial riflemen have often placed in the first ten, and this year the prospects are bright with the talent the team now possesses.

The individual championship will help polish the team for its coming schedule, which begins in a few weeks. Coach Frank Parsons and Captain Johnny Brightenberg are confident of the outcome of these matches because of the remarkable showing the men have made. Although practically all of the men on the squad have not shot in competition before, they are showing unexpected ability, especially in the difficult standing position.

Swim Team Meets Jays in Baltimore

George Washington's varsity "splashmen" travel to Baltimore on Saturday to fill a return tank engagement with Johns Hopkins. With the promotion of John Hain, star back-stroker, from the "B" squad to the varsity, the Buff and Blue natators hope to gain revenge for the 34-32 defeat handed them by the Jays at the beginning of the season.

April 7 marks the date for the two-day District A. A. U. indoor swimming meet to be held at the Shoreham pool. George Washington, Georgetown and Central, as well as the Ambassador and Shoreham clubs, are expected to participate. Max Rote, captain of the Colonial mermen, has expressed his confidence that G. W. will win first honors, which were taken by the Ambassador club in last season's encounter.

Chesterfields are Milder

WHEN you ask a Chesterfield smoker why that's his brand—he generally comes right out flat-footed and says . . . "It's because They're Milder!"

So we're going to keep on doing everything we know how to keep them that way.

That's why we look for and buy the mildest and ripest tobaccos we can get. That's why we age them in our warehouses till they're mellow and sweet.

We believe that even the shredding of the tobacco . . . and the quality of the paper it's rolled in, have a lot to do with the even-drawing, mild smoke that people enjoy in Chesterfields.

You can bank on this . . . every method known to science is used to make Chesterfield a milder, better-tasting cigarette that satisfies.

Ruth Bryan Owen Addresses Annual Pan-Hel Luncheon

Mrs. Wilson Compton Presides at Annual Luncheon; Troubadour Trio Sings

"Citizenship"—its duties and privileges, and the efforts to arouse interest in it by the selection of the best citizens in different colleges, was the subject of the speech of Ruth Bryan Owen, distinguished clubwoman and representative of the Florida delegation in the House of Representatives, who was the guest speaker at the annual Panhellenic luncheon at the Mayflower, Saturday, February 4.

Seated at the speakers' table over which Mrs. Wilson Compton, president of the alumni Panhellenic group, presided, were the presidents of the represented sororities. Ruth Warren, president of the George Washington Panhel, and the president of the Maryland University Panhellenic Society, were hostesses at a second table, at which prominent members of each sorority were seated.

Grace Griffen, Margaret Gilligan, and Annabel McCullough, a Troubadour Trio, were well received when they sang three numbers from the last Troubadour show.

No Compulsory Bath For Wellesley Coed

The fair co-eds at Wellesley think they are clean enough! This outspoken belief was broadcast in a letter to the Wellesley College News protesting against compulsory showers after physical education classes.

"The showers are no good," the letter says. One spends an uncomfortable five minutes endeavoring to get either the hot or cold water faucet to pour forth something other than ice water. Then the seeker of cleanliness rushes out, gets dressed, and fares forth into the icy blasts of a winter wind, arriving home with the sniffles caused by said blasts contacting a damp body. The crowning straw is that one always has to indulge in further ablutions in order to be presentable for dinner.

"No soap, not enough towels—why should we bother?" say the girls. Those that want to be so inconvenienced should certainly be given the privilege, but the rest of the girls are old enough to take care of themselves. And physical education would be so much more pleasant if one could be her own judge as to whether or not a shower should immediately follow!

Fresno Fraternities Banished From Town

Reports from Fresno, Calif., indicate that those extravagant motion pictures of wild college life may be authentic and realistic after all, or at least true to the college life of the section of the country in which the pictures are made.

Following complaints from residents of the Fresno State College district, the fraternities and sororities were placed under orders to move into a restricted district near the college.

The residents complained that the noise produced by the students ruined the values of other residential property in the neighborhood. After hearings the city commission upheld the protesting citizens and ordered the students to move to another site, far from the section where values had been diminished by their presence.

Orchesis Deserts Old Brick Church

The "Old Brick Church" on H street has been forsaken by the group of pretty young dancing girls known as the "Orchesis" Club. These rhythmic dancers are now stepping gaily on the mirror-like floor over at the Ten O'clock Club on K street.

Despite the splinters in the floor, the smoke-covered heating plant standing in the corner, and numerous other unpleasant features not altogether conducive to interpretative dancing, the interior of the "old church" did have artistic possibilities, they admit. However, the comfort and pleasure afforded by the beautiful drawing room over on K street was too much for the young ladies to resist, so they said farewell to the old stand.

How Many Pebbles On the Sand Beach?

It has been remarked and generally accepted that even the least observant of people know the number of steps on their staircases or the number of prongs that compose a table fork. Even the least experienced of psychologists are inclined to regard this as a platitude, but platitudes have a disconcerting habit of being unsubstantiated at times as shown by answer to questions on "incidental memory," taken by a class in experimental psychology at Hood College.

For instance, it is an established fact that Joan of Arc was neither a contortionist or the thousand-armed goddess Kwannon, but she might very well have been a combination of both, according to answers to the position of her hands in a well-known statue. "She has one hand at her side and one on her lap." "She has them outstretched." "She has them relaxed in her lap." "She has one on her foot and the other on her knee," were some of the replies. Actually, in the sculpture, the maid's hands are very decidedly clasped on her knee.

The portrait of President Apple was adorned with a watch and chain and a tie pin, according to answers of students questioned on his jewelry. In the picture he wears simply a ring. Room 010 was variously located as the postoffice, physics laboratory, bacteriological laboratory, and storage room, while the sign on the workshop was said to read "Superintendent of Grounds." "Engine Room." "Book Store." "Private." and "Do Not Enter."

The real Waterloo, however, was reached when students were asked to name pictures on the walls, enumerate the steps leading to the first landing and the number of bulbs on the lights in the lobby.

It must be surmised that "cutting" is of infrequent occurrence at Hood, since so few of the students seemed to know anything about the double set of doors at the west entrance.

Music by Renard Is Prom Feature

Novel Grand March, Lighting Effects and Favors Add to Success

Jacques Renard, of Camel Quarter Hour fame, supplied the soft synopating rhythm that greeted the ears of the brilliant assemblage at the interfraternity prom last Wednesday night.

Featuring music of a soft, slow tempo, Renard more than fulfilled the exacting demands of prom fans. An unusual arrangement of lighting transformed the main ballroom of the Willard into melodious atmosphere quite representative of the music, as played by Renard.

During intermission, a unique grand march was staged, under the direction of John Royce, which culminated in an archway of men through which the ladies promenaded, receiving their favors as they emerged. Just before the march, Ruth Warren and Ruth Critchfield, who led the prom with Wendell Bain and William Hanback, respectively, were presented with orchid corsages by Jacques Renard. Miss Warren was gowning in black velvet with a gardenia on each shoulder, while Miss Critchfield wore a dress of gold crepe trimmed in sequins. Julia Fick was striking in a gown of heavy black crepe made on extremely simple lines. Amanda Chittum stood out in black velvet trimmed with silver sequins. Betty Crane wore an unusual gown of white crepe with insets of jade green. Betty Coon was dressed in a Joan Crawford model in black velvet.

Gate and Key Pledges Seven Immediately following the march Henry Grattan Doyle introduced William Helvestine, president of Gate and Key, and formal pledging to that group took place. The neophytes were Dewitt Hyde and Allan Stauby of Kappa Sigma; William Keller of Delta Tau Delta; Robert Hitch, Lambda Chi Alpha; Grandison Allen, Sigma Nu; Brendel Gettys, Beta Theta Pi; and Dennis Link, Sigma Phi Epsilon.

The next event was the awarding of the interfraternity scholarship trophy by Thomas Vaughn to Acacia fraternity. The athletic trophies were then awarded to the various winners by Edward Crouch. During the distribution of the Razzberry, Renard featured specialties by various members of his band. The Promenade, surpassing its predecessors in music, setting, and attendance, was truly the outstanding social event of the year.

Oberlin's Fish Club Shuns Fair Coeds

Harassed men of Oberlin University have recently incorporated with the purpose of creating a cynical attitude towards the approaches of co-eds. Their organization, a reformed model of the Fish Club, is headed by the Kingfish. Other officers are First Bass, Holy Mackerel, and Grand Carp. However, with cigarettes recently placed at their disposal, the campus feemes may still be able to "catch" these "fish" by the luring "bait" of well known brands.

Former Troubadour Star To Study With LeGalliene

William Phillips, former University student and star of Troubadour productions, has received admission to the school for dramatic training conducted in New York by Eva LeGalliene.

One of fifty young actors and actresses chosen by Miss LeGalliene from more than a thousand applicants, Phillips won his entrance through a display of marked ability in the tryouts conducted last spring. His presentation of the death scene from "Romeo and Juliet," and an excerpt from Quintero's "Women Have Their Way," won him his admission to the school.

During his days at The George Washington University, Phillips won renown in Troubadour presentations, notably "Good Gracious Godfrey." Given at Tech High in 1930.

Kerr High Scorer In National Match

Kerr, Myers Make High Averages in Individual Collegiate Rifle Match

With Evelyn Kerr as high scorer, making 588 points out of a possible 600, the women's rifle team brought to a close its part of the individual collegiate rifle match in which the best rifle teams from all over the United States competed.

Robert Whitney Bolwell Soon to Start On Literary Journey of United States

Professor of Literature to Write Cultural History of American People After Studying the Living and Thought of the Inhabitants of America

Dr. Robert Whitney Bolwell, professor of American Literature and dean of the Summer Sessions, will soon begin a new kind of literary pilgrimage of the United States. On February 15 he will start on a five-month journey by automobile which will take him upon a circuit of the continent for study and observation; a sort of "tin can tour in quest of the American spirit."

While Professor Bolwell does not contemplate stopping at tourist camps nor patronizing roadside hot dog stands, it will be his endeavor on this transcontinental journey to get close to the people and to gain a perspective of America's way of living and aspect of thought.

Starting down the east coast and visiting Charlottesville, Charleston and Savannah on the way, Professor Bolwell will cross to the Pacific coast by the Southern route. After spending some time in California and Washington, he will return East through the northern States.

He will visit all of the large universities in the path of his itinerary to discover what each is doing in the way of research in American literature. Professor Bolwell will spend some time at the Huntington Museum in Los Angeles, where there is a large collection of Americana, and also will do considerable work at the University of Washington, where research in American literature has been considerably developed.

Only Book of Kind
The monumental work planned by Dr. Bolwell, and which, he says, may take the next 20 years in its completion, is a cultural history of the American people. There have been histories of American literature, political histories, social histories, etc., but as yet there is no work which sums up all this to present a comprehensive picture of life as it has manifested itself under American democracy, projected against the background of the racial origins and physical environment of the people.

Professor Bolwell's book will further endeavor to plot the course of changing cultural ideas within the boundaries of America, tracing the gradual growth of a conflict which has arisen between the highly industrialized East and a slowly retreating frontier, clinging to the ideals of Jeffersonian democracy.

Since Washington is the headquarters for source materials in American literature, Dr. Bolwell seeks to develop contacts which will lead to the utilization of the facilities for graduate study in American literature at The George Washington University by scholars in all parts of the country.

This University was among the first to install courses in American literature, and Professor Bolwell, the first incumbent of its Chair of American Literature, has done pioneer research in the field.

This rule established a torrid (or frigid) area around the goal for 20 yards in which the offensive team could hold the ball for five downs instead of the customary four. The officials believed this would encourage attempts for relatively short gains.

ILLUSION:

The stage is all set for target practice. The magician lifts his bow and aims an arrow at the bull's-eye. His lovely assistant then steps in front of the target and he shoots the arrow—apparently through her—and it fixes itself in the very center of the bull's-eye! And she smiles through it all while the audience gasps.

EXPLANATION:

The arrow which the marksman "shoots through" his assistant simply folds up into the crossbow! The arrow which is actually embedded in the target is shot by the girl herself from a belt concealed under her dress. She releases a little spring, the arrow unfolds, and shoots straight into the bull's-eye! It is all done in a flash! So quickly the eye cannot detect the girl's movements! To heighten the impression that the arrow has gone right through, the girl releases a ribbon from the front of her dress—the continuation, apparently, of the ribbon attached to the arrow in the target.

CAMELS

It's fun to be fooled —
...it's more fun to KNOW

Like to see through tricks? Then let's look at another... the illusion in cigarette advertising called "Cigarettes and Your Throat."

The audience is told that by certain magic processes tobacco can be made as soothing as cough medicine.

EXPLANATION: The easiest cigarette on your throat is the cigarette that is made from the choicest ripe tobaccos. Cheap, raw tobaccos are, as you would naturally expect, harsh in their effects upon the throat.

If you have to consider your throat, the quality of the tobacco in your cigarette is important.

It is a fact, well known by leaf tobacco experts, that Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

Camels are as non-irritating as a cigarette can be because Camels use choice, ripe, tobaccos.

And because of the matchless blending of these costlier tobaccos Camels have a rich bouquet and aroma... a cool, delicious flavor.

Keep the air-tight, welded Humidor Pack on your Camels... to assure yourself and your companions a fresh, cool smoke.

Omicron Delta Kappa Sponsors Pep Talks

Omicron Delta Kappa, national honorary activities fraternity, will sponsor a series of talks by leaders of 10 major campus organizations before "Dean" Wilbur's freshman rhetoric classes Friday, February 10, at 5 p. m. and Saturday, February 11, at 10 a. m., in Corcoran Hall 10.

These talks are given in line with the policy of the University and of Omicron Delta Kappa to acquaint new students with some of the opportunities offered by the many organizations on campus and for the purpose of assisting students to orient themselves. It is felt that freshmen often delay their entrance into campus life because they are not acquainted with the factors which compose it and thus preclude realization of much that might prove beneficial both to themselves and to the University.

Coe College Decides Stealing Not Wrong

Coe College of Iowa has placed before its student body the question of justifiableness of theft by a man to prevent the starvation of his family. Six of the seven replies by students favor thievery for this purpose.

The problem is not an ethical or moral one. It is rather one which is bound to arise from some maladjustment of our social system. A man who has a family to save from starvation must work, beg or steal. Having failed in the first two, he must resort to the last method.

The contention is that charitable organizations do help some persons, but usually they do not help those who are actually needy. Theft is, therefore, essential to the preservation of life. While such action may cause a sacrifice for the victim, it might more than repay society as a whole in the potential intellectual and spiritual powers of the children which would be eliminated by starvation.

Can a man be condemned for an attempt to save the lives that might be the genius of the nation? Coe students say no.

Concert Will Be Presented Next Month by Orchestra

WHO'S WHO On The Faculty

JOHN DONALDSON

Dr. John Donaldson, professor of political economy, was elected vice chairman of the board of directors of the Academy of World Economics at its recent organization meeting.

New directors added to the board included Under-Secretary of State William R. Castle, Miss Grace Abbott, and Dr. Liefur Magnusson. Dr. Donaldson is also chairman of the committee on program and ways and means.

The Academy was conceived by Dr. Donaldson and Dr. William F. Notz, many years ago, and was finally established last year with the participation of other leading scholars. Last summer it held a series of round-table conferences, in connection with the Institute of Public Affairs at Charlottesville, Va., and these proceedings have just appeared as Brochure No. 2, on "Gold: A World Problem," containing, among others, Dr. Donaldson's paper on "Gold and International Trade"; these articles also appear in the January, 1933, issue of the Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Science.

The Academy of World Economics is holding a series of round-table conferences this winter; the next one, on February 16, will be on "International Aspects of the Labor Problem."

As indicated in Who's Who in America, Dr. Donaldson, formerly connected with the U. S. War Trade Board, Shipping Board, and the Departments of State and Commerce, one-time secretary of the U. S. Interdepartmental Economic Liaison Committee, and technical adviser to the American delegation at the Arms Conference, has been professor at George Washington University since 1922 and has served in various administrative posts here.

Dr. Donaldson is the author of various books, including "International Economic Relations: A Treatise on World Economy and World Politics," a pioneer work widely known in the United States, England, Europe, and Latin America, and also in Asia, republished in Spanish in 1930, and adopted at leading universities here and abroad, including the London School of Economics and Political Science, and sent by the State Department to American embassies, legations, and consulates in 1931.

He has traveled widely, at various times, in foreign countries, studying economic and political conditions. In 1931 he attended the first Conference of Professors of International Relations, at Geneva, and was appointed the American member of the permanent committee, with Drs. Manning of England, Eisenmann of Paris, Hoetsch of Berlin, Mantoux of Geneva, and Giannini of Rome; a report was issued under League auspices in 1932.

A Fellow of the Royal Economic Society of England, and a member of various other learned societies here and abroad, Dr. Donaldson is also national vice president of Delta Phi Epsilon, foreign service fraternity; archon of the Washington alumni chapter of Pi Kappa Phi (social); and governor of Last year Dr. E. Starr Judd, president of the American Medical Society and Chief Surgeon of the Mayo Clinic spoke at the banquet. In 1931 Dr. Elliott P. Joslin, of the Harvard University Medical School, leading American authority on diabetes, came to Washington to address the banquet. The preceding year the speaker was Dr. George W. Crile, outstanding authority on thyroid and goiter treatment, and founder of the famous Cleveland Clinic.

Alumni to Reward Scholastic Victors

With the final round of games in the inter-high series being played today, the Central High five must only chalk-up a victory over Western to be the first winner of the championship cup presented by the Central Alumni Association. This cup, which was offered at the beginning of the season, will become the permanent possession of the high school team winning it three times.

In placing this award as a yearly prize to the winning quint and in permanent possession of the first three-time winner, the Alumni Association feels that the University is definitely offering a spur to competition and spirit among the high schools as well as showing a token of its feeling toward them collectively.

A cup 34 inches high, it is topped by the winged figure of Victory and bears the following inscription, "G. W. U. Alumni Award." Beneath this inscription will be printed the names of the victorious teams. It is on display now in the window of Pearson and Crain and can be seen there until the initial presentation is made within the near future.

The District of Columbia province of Pi Gamma Mu, national social science honor (key) society, in which capacity he recently organized an inter-chapter committee and a province dinner at which a new chapter was installed.

A regular contributor to European and American learned journals and encyclopedias, Professor Donaldson's most recent papers and addresses have included: "Le Mouvement d'Enterprise Internationale et la Politique Nationale" in the Revue Economique Internationale; "The United States and Economic Pan-America," delivered on the Pan-American program (with Dr. Leo S. Rowe) of the Institute of International Relations, October, 1932, and now being published in "Social Science"; a popular radio broadcast a few days ago on "Technocracy"; a paper on "International Aspects of Economic Planning," presented at the A. U. W. Seminar, January 25, 1933; and a scientific brochure on "The World Monetary Problem," published in January, 1933, by the Institut fur Weltwirtschaft und Seeverkehr in the Weltwirtschaftliches Archiv.

Pay for Punts! Says College Editor; Reporter Foresees Future Features

By MARIE H. O'BRIEN.

Another college editor has attracted the attention of the Associated Press. This time it is the editor of the Minnesota Daily, a student paper at the University of Minnesota, who urges "as a business proposition" that football players be entitled to more than "that tired, aching feeling."

Football, says this editor, is a business proposition. "Coaches," the Minnesota Daily asserts, "are shifted as soon as a team has a losing streak and everything is done to keep the team winning and maintaining gate receipts. This is good business. . . . The most important cog in the money-making machine is the football player, and his only return is that tired, aching feeling and a lot of slosh about fighting for dear old alma mater. Why not pay the deserving workers?"

The Associated Press account does not state that the editor gives the names of any Minnesota football players as supporting his position.

Your reporter has not been able to learn the attitude of the students at the University of Minnesota, but the following items are suggested as possible future publicity for the University if the editor prevails:

Signs As Halfback

Holdout John Svensky today agreed to terms offered by the University and signed a new contract. Although the terms were not made public, it is understood that Svensky will be paid on touchdowns, not first downs.

Sold to Siwash

Minnesota today traded Center Pete

Musselbond to Siwash for End Strazinovich and Tackle Mislinski. It is rumored that Minnesota refused to pay Musselbond more than the salary of the President, but Siwash met his terms.

Sues for Compensation

The University of Minnesota was today made defendant in an action brought under the Employers' Liability Law for injuries sustained by Ossie Malingere, guard.

Minnesota Stadium Picketed

Disgruntled employees of the athletic department of the University of Minnesota today established a program of peaceful picketing about the stadium. The employees, who claim that they were locked out because they demanded the right to collective bargaining, carried banners. Some of the banners read as follows:

"We want easier schedules"
"We demand better training table food"
"This shop unfair to labor"
"Ten dollars a yard"
"We want old age insurance"
"Down with amateurs and scabs"
"No beer—no work"

University authorities are fearful that the pickets may precipitate a clash with a few students and amateur football players who have been singing the "Alma Mater" within the hearing of the strikers.

After College WHAT?

Journalism?

Thomas W. Gerber of the executive staff of the United Press says: "Seeking, reporting, interpreting and distributing news is today a complex business, an exciting profession, a responsible career. It is a field only for serious-minded, clear-thinking men and women. The day of romantic, adventurous assignments is largely over."

THERE'S no more "newspaper game." Today, it's a business—still exciting, but calling for all-round resourcefulness. That's why newspaper men agree with college men in choosing a pipe as their favorite smoke. A pipe helps a man organize his mind for clear thinking.

Why did college men choose Edgeworth as their favorite smoking tobacco? Because it's individual! A blend of fine old burleys that's different.

But the proof of the pudding is in the eating. So drop a line to Larus & Bro. Co., 105 S. 22d St., Richmond, Va., and let them send you a free sample of Edgeworth to try before you buy. You'll like it!

*A recent investigation showed Edgeworth the favorite smoke at 42 out of 54 leading colleges.
